STARVING IN KANSAS.

Sad Story of Destitution in Stevens County.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 25.-James S. Gregory of Houghton, Stevens county, Kas., arrived in the city today. He came for the purpose of soliciting aid for the people of his county, who he says are in sore need of food, clothing and fuel. He has credentials from the commissioners of Stevers county and nearly all the county officials. Mr. Gregory says there are 75 families in Cleveland township, Stevens county, Kas., whose condition is becoming alarming. All are in frightfully destitute circumstances, and the women and children have not sufficient clothing to protect them from the cold. When Mr. Gregory was spoken to in regard to the Governor's action in promising the destitute people of Kansas aid and asked why he did not apply to him for succor, he replied:

"All that has been sent from Kansas to the needy has been corn Corn is good in its way but it does not supply wants. We must have clothing and other provisions or we will freeze or starve."

The Commercial Club considered Mr. Gregory's appeal to night and subscribed $100 for the relief of the sufferers. A car-load of provisions and clothing will also be sent to Liberal to-morrow over the Rock Island. From Liberal the food and clething will be taken by wagon to those most in need. Mr. Gregory says that Martin and several other counties are also in need.

The dinner given by Mr. Andrew Carnegie at Washington last night to President Harrison and his cabinet and the delegates and officers of the International congress is pronounced by the press reports to have been the most elaborate and sumptuous affair ever witnessed at the national capitol. It rivaled in magnificence the historic banquet of Lucullus, and cast into the shade the feasts of Rome at the period of her meridian splendor. The treasures of art and nature were laid under contribution to embellish and and furnish forth the board, and nothing which limitless wealth could obtain was wanting to enhance the rare luxury of the entertainment. It furnished one of the most impressive illustrations which the country has seen of the advantages of protection to its chosen beneficaries, and revealed to the people the attractive features of the system which is enabling them to build up and foster by payment of tribute a gilded caste which puts' to shame the boasted plutocracies of vanished ages.—Kansas City Star.

The New York Tribune is so disgusted at the selfishness of New England iron men, who ask for free raw materials, that it loses sight of children, from Newport and took up the whole principle of "protection" and exclaims:

The petition of the iron manufac turers is signed by an official of a nail mill built fifty-three years ago, and now virtually abandoned, by the lessee of an old mill built a quarter that instantly arrests the attention of a century ago, and by one large nail making concern, but it is added that "other leading representatives ple in the neighborhood in which of the iron manufacturing interest"

Principal Walsh told the pupils that they need not study that portion of the book if their parents would send him a notice giving them permission to skip obnoxious chapters. A few days later he received a sort of a round robin document signed by the parents of the scholars, declaring their opposition to the study of the history by their children. Walsh was not satisfied with this and demanded a personal note from each of the parents. This was refused and the suspension of the pupils followed. Hiding its Light.

The state of Missouri has tried "Thus far the reports of our corre- bushel than any other state in the union. Kansas has cried its wares to the world and homeseekers from the four corners of the earth have crowded into the Sunflower state. Its name is a household word and it has flourished and grown great Its immigration bureau, its papers and its people are loyal to the interests of the state and no chance to spread its fame is lost.

North of us there is Dakota. It heralded its wealth of farming lands and mineral ores abroad and the tide of wealth and homeseekers rolled over its broad prairies in a perfect

In the south there is the state of Georgia. In a few years it cast off the lethargic sleep that enthralled many of the southern states, and now the name of Georgia, with its enterprising towns of Atlanta, Birmingham, Sheffield and a dozen others, is known as one of the most progressive states in the union. All this has been done by ceaselessly agitating in the press, in public meetings, through immigration bureaus, the advntages that Georgia has to offer to capital and labor.

The state of Missouri is one of the richest states in the union. It has an empire of cheap farming lands. In the southwestern part of the state there are thousands of acres fallowing, that await the plughsheare and the hand of the husbandman. In the state there are mines of untold wealth awaiting the pickaxe of the miner. Along its river bottoms there are virgin forests of timber awaiting the axe of the lumberman. Missouri needs, more than anything easy going state. The tide of immigration is passing on every side of, total of the Methodist the state and passing through the than any commonwealth in the union and should let the fact be known. —K. C. News.

Well and Happy.

I take pleasure in submitting the following statement of facts that you may know the great benefit that has resulted from the use of Specific in () circuit the case of my little daughter, now ten years of age. The child, when two years of age, had a severe attack of scarlet fever, which left her with a shattered constitution. Among other evidences of impaired nutrition was what the doctors called softening of the bones. In her 5th year she happened to a slight accident which resulted in the dislocation of the hip joint, and, from the irritation thus set up, terrible abscesses of the hip ensued. The abscesses, despite the best medical treatment that could be obtained, remained for three years, discharging continuously. At this time, through the influence of friends, I put her on your S. S. S. When this treatment was commenced the abscess was very large, having six perforations, pus discharging through them all. During this treatment several spiculæ of bone came out, and by the time she had finished her fifth bottle the abscess had entirely healed, her appetite and general health had been restored; in short, she was well and happy.
